NOTEBOOK— (Continued From Page One)

But I can't do that! Somebody has got to stay around to handle the traffic going up to Mary Jo and Mike's apartment over the News office. As I sit right here writing this column I have one ear tuned to the sound of a possible infant wail from upstairs and the other plugged up to silence some of the constant tromping up and down the stairs at the right of my desk.

Before Todd (that's what they are going to call him) I could tell Mike's footsteps . . . hurried and staccato-like. Then there were Paul's (grandfather Westpheling's) a sort of tip-toe, because he didn't want us to know how many times he went up there to share the happiness of having such fine, new tenants.

I wasn't able to distinguish the footsteps of grandfather and grandmother Wendell and Louise Butts, or great-grandfather and great-grandmother Paul and Georgia Butts, because they usually came either before I got to the office or after I had gone.

But now that Todd was brought to his home on Tuesday afternoon, I have given up trying to distinguish the footsteps; it's a lost cause. Everybody, at least the people who really matter, have been so wonderful in sharing this event with us, that the very pleasant stampede of visitors is like adrenalin that keeps stimulating our sense of gratitude and happiness for all the wonderful friends we share.

To all the marvelous staff at Hillview Hospital and to Drs. Nelson and Ragsdale, the Westpheling and Butts families send our warmest good wishes for a long life and sturdy health to continue to give the incomparable care, strength and comfort to people when they need it the most.

There is only one small cloud that deters almost perfect happiness at the arrival of Michael Todd Butts.

My good and wonderful friend, and right arm, and girl Friday, Anna Belle Edwards returned recently from San Antonio, Texas where she accorded a royal welcome to her GREAT-GRANDCHILD.

Every time I start to say something about the out-of-this-world features of Todd Butts, she comes up with a better story about Bryan Andrew Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Martin, (her granddaughter.)

It's just simply ridiculous how she keeps talking about that baby when I'm trying to interrupt her to tell her about our grandson.

She's just a silly old, great-grandmother with too many pictures. . . whoops, I'll have to take that back. Louise Butts has just purchased one of those carpet-bag type purses to carry Todd's pictures in. Mike took pictures with a Polaroid every hour on the hour, and the story goes that Louise and Wendell confiscated them as fast as the coating dried.

This is enough for right now on this subject, except for one thing. In spite of all the ogling I've been doing about the good-looking and personable fellow who has come into our lives, I found out, with almost humiliating revelation, that I was not wrong all these years when I said that all new babies look alike . . . and stay that way, even for months.

This is a real story, sad to say!

One evening while Mary Jo was dozing, and Mike was studying (he's enrolled in Business Administration at UTMB) I carefully walked down the hall to the nursery window to feast on the beauty of our heavenly little bundle of joy, and grinning all by myself in the semi-darkness of the hallway.

First thing you know, one of the nurses went into the nursery, flicked a light switch, and wheeled away the little crib. I couldn't imagine what I had done, but thought perhaps the nurse was afraid my recent cold would infect the baby.

Soon she rolled two cribs to the window (another baby was born just that day) and with the kindest, most understanding remark I ever heard, she said:

"Jo, now how about giving Mary Jo's baby some of that tender loving attention you've been giving this other baby."

The money for the groups was obtained through the joint efforts of Michael Lappin and Reverend Bob Layne.

Lappin is the former Volunteer coordinator of the local poverty program. Layne is the vicar of Trinity and St. Paul's Episcopal churches of Fulton and Hickman and has been very active in helping the poor since he came to the area in June, 1968. The Hickman Day Care Center operates at his Hickman church.

The coal cooperatives were organized by Lappin and VISTAs Tom Sullivan, Tom Long and Jim Setbacken. VISTAs are people who have come to this area to work with the poor.

The Hickman Transport Club, the organization that will serve Fulton County, is headed by Sam Mayes, Robert Warren, and Gary Baggett. To buy coal, contact must be made with any of these men or VISTAs Long and Setbacken. Interested people can also write the Club at P. O. Box 132, Hickman.

PUMPKIN IS FRENCH

The word "pumpkin" comes from pompon, an old French word meaning eaten when "cooked by the sun" or ripe.

State President Jaycee Speaker For Meeting

The Fulton Jaycees held their regular third Monday night meeting at the Derby Restaurant at 7 p. m. on January 20.

After a good meal, the meeting was called to order by the president, Joe Johnson, who explained the purpose of the upcoming membership banquet. Mr. Johnson then called on Glenn Howell, external vice president, to summarize the coming events to be carried on by the local club. Mr. Howell announced that Thomas Terry will be chairman of the TV raffle.

Randell Jeffress, membership chairman, gave a report on the work that has been done to date on the membership banquet, which will be held February 8 at Park Terrace. The speaker at this banquet will be Gene Peter, Kentucky Jaycee President.

Ron Laird gave a short orientation talk on the Jaycee organization. Jerry Johnson, Tommy Scarce, Harold Duke, Jimmy Steele and Dick Armstrong were welcomed as new members.

CAREER WOMAN—

and other vital information about personnel matters.

Mrs. Johnston has been membership chairman for the American Public Welfare Association in Kentucky for three years. In 1966, Kentucky gained more new members (almost 500) than 49 other states combined. In 1967 Kentucky received the APWA National Membership Award with Mrs. Johnston as membership chairman. Kentucky gained 219 memberships up to a total of 997 in 1967.

And for three years, Kentucky won the 10-state APWA Southeastern Region membership crown.

Mrs. Johnston says her abiding goal in life is public service and she is concerned daily for those who render public service on the government or voluntary level, the employee level as well as administrative side.

A native of Harrodsburg where she attended high school, Mrs. Johnston is a member of the Presbyterian Church, the Kentucky Welfare Association, International Association of Personnel in Employment Security and the Ten-Ure Club. Her husband Palmer Johnston died in 1951.

JUDGE CRUCE—

a number of court house improvements. Among these mentioned were $1,000 to sand-blast the court-house, buy fire-proof cabinets, fix the court house clock, and build new rest rooms.

Cruce said that during his term of office no debts have accumulated. He stated that his bonded indebtedness had decreased every year since he has been in office. There have been no new county bond issues since he took office. The bonds which had accumulated were from the "wooden bridge" days.

When the judge was asked about the report that came out which said that Fulton was one of the counties in which there was a great deal of hunger, he replied that "if there were any people going hungry, it was because they haven't asked for food." He did, however, admit there might be some malnutrition. When asked if the county might want to participate in a nutrition program which would cost about $7,000, he replied that he didn't think so. (The reporter had reference to new War on Poverty Program.)

In explaining his role in the library tax issue, the judge stated that he merely wanted to let all the citizens of Fulton County know what the issues were. Because of this, he said he put an ad in area newspapers, telling how much the library would cost the county. The judge concluded this ad, which appeared in the Fulton News on April 20, 1967, by saying, "Libraries are fine, but the question is - Can we afford them?" Cruce said in the interview that he had not taken any sides on the library issue and "was merely for what the majority of citizens in the county were for."

(The majority of the county VOTED FOR a library tax in November.) Judge Cruce resides in Cayce, where he is a lay leader with the Cayce Methodist Church. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, the American Legion, the Disabled American War Veterans, the Chamber of Commerce of Hickman and Fulton, and the Lions Club. He has had two years of college at Murray State and a year at Bruce Business College.

W. Averell Harriman, head of the U. S. delegation in Paris talks:

"We have started on the road toward peace in 1968 and voice hope that forthcoming negotiations in Paris will lead to an end to the fighting in Vietnam in 1969."

A NEW FIGURE—Janet Sue Hatfield, Miss Kentucky 1968, displays a new set of figures, the 1969 Kentucky auto license tags. The plates cost $12.50 each and must be on all Kentucky autos by March 1. Miss Kentucky is a freshman at Morehead State University, which is located in Rowan County.

Letter From Washington

by

Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

We went to President Johnson's valedictory. It was the first time since 1801 that an outgoing President gave his report to the nation and for President Johnson and for the members of Congress, I'm very glad that he did. There had been a rumor that some of the Members were not going to attend the joint session, but the floor and the galleries were as crowded as I have ever seen them, and everyone, the President and his audience, at their best.

We have only one President until his successor is inaugurated, and politics were laid aside in this feeling of respect and generosity for a man who had come to the House as a doorkeeper 38 years ago, had become a member of the House of Representatives, a Senator, the leader of his party in the Senate, a Vice President, and the President of our country. It is a paradox that when he said, "Now it is time to leave", all of us wanted him to stay and when he said, "I think it will be said that we tried," there was scarcely a dry eye in the house.

Having been a Senator's wife for thirteen years, I like every other political wife, have great sympathy for men in politics. In private life a man's successes and failures are usually known only to people in their work and to their families, but in public life every defeat or mistake is a headline. That goes for the successes too, so it is counterbalanced in a sense. But for a proud man, which all men are, public criticism can be very hard to bear with equanimity and doubly hard for their wives and children.

Mrs. Johnson is the best President's wife I have ever known. Her warmth and courtesy, with the good manners that come from a good heart, have brightened Washington as much as the beauty of the flowers and trees that blossom not only in the Capitol but all over this country due to her tireless efforts. She never interfered with her husband's business but complemented him by making the White House so warm and hospitable for everyone that went there.

The memory of the Joint Session will always be a sweet one, and a wonderful farewell to the Johnsons.

Another moving event was the christening of little Rory Kennedy, daughter of Ethel and the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy. It was held in the starkly modern church and school of St. Luke's Church in McLean, Virginia, near Hickory Hill, where the Kennedys live. There were about 100 people invited to the ceremony, which could so easily have been extremely sad, but through the courage and bright spirit of Ethel Kennedy, was a touching and happy occasion.

Rory Elizabeth Katherine cried noisily—a good sign I am told, as it drives the devil out—as she was held by her nine-year-old sister, Kerry, dressed in white with a white ribbon in her hair. Her brother, 10-year-old Michael Lemoyne, stood beside her, but Kerry managed the baby all through the baptism. The baby was dressed in a long white satin dress that has been worn by all her ten brothers and sisters, and plainly did not like any of the lively guitar music or even the touching song that had been written for her.

Mrs. Kennedy sat in the front pew while 4-year-old Matthew busily waved and posed for photographers with his hands above his head like Winston Churchill. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis sat across the aisle with the wife of Senator Edward Kennedy. She looked marvelously beautiful in a dark coat with fur lapels and a matching large soft beret. Ethel Kennedy, dressed in black, was escorted down the aisle by her brother-in-law, Senator Edward Kennedy, and placed her new baby in little Kerry's arms when she reached the altar.

All of us joined in singing the Song of Baptism.

"See this child before you Lord, You who gave her life. Keep her in your sight, O Lord, Now and all her days."

Although music is not customary in baptism ceremonies, Mrs. Kennedy had especially requested the same type of music that was a part of the remembrance mass for the late Senator in the church where he had worshipped.

All Kentuckians must be as happy as we are by the announcement that Lucy Alexander Winchester is to be Mrs. Nixon's new social secretary. I think it impressive that twice in a row Kentuckians have been chosen out of all the States in the Union to assist Presidents' wives in this position. Bess Abel, the daughter of ex-governor and senator from Kentucky, Earle Clements and Mrs. Clements, who is leaving after five years in the White House, is helping Mrs. Winchester by giving her much valuable information, and no one can be of better help than Bess.

had lastly stated that "it was up to the Board to prove his guilt, not up to Lappin to prove his innocence." He noted that before Tuesday night's meeting he had never been told why he had been fired.

The Board apparently paid no attention to Lappin's statements. His firing was upheld 12 to 5.

In other actions by the Council, Waldo Page was re-elected as vice Chairman of the board of directors. P. L. Nichols was elected secretary and Billy Bryen was elected treasurer of the Board. Their terms of office last for one year.

Two additional low income representatives were seated on the Board. They are Mrs. Dunlow from Fulton County and Wayne Byass from Ballard County. Although Byass was not present, the Board ruled that he could be seated. Acting Chairman Page then stated that the Board was in compliance with OEO regulations.

Ro Gardner had asked the Board why they had not participated in helping set up the coal cooperatives. Arnett said that he had offered to help but that Lappin had never wanted to work with him. Lappin denied this and cited two specific instances where he had asked Arnett's assistance and was turned down. Lappin concluded his remarks by telling the Board that "sooner or later the Board will have to address itself to the issue of why the program hasn't done anything since Shapiro left. This is the issue which will determine whether the program will get more money."

Shadoan then said that as a Board member he had helped the groups. Shadoan had given free legal help to the cooperatives.

Cook Selects Agriculture For Senate Program

Senator Marlow W. Cook (R) of Kentucky today announced in Washington that he had received his first choice of Committee assignments. Cook said, "Since Kentucky is essentially an agricultural state, I wanted to get on this Committee so that the agricultural interests of our state would receive adequate representation."

Senator Allen J. Ellender (D) of Louisiana is chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

An aide reported that Cook was also appointed to the Judiciary Committee. He said, "The Senator was especially pleased to become a member of the Judiciary Committee, since it has jurisdiction over proposed constitutional amendments."

One of Cook's greatest interests is pushing the nation's voting age to 18. As a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he will be in a better position to influence its approval by the Committee and subsequent passage by the Senate. The Judiciary Committee is headed by Senator James O. Eastland (D) of Mississippi.

All Of New Purchase Parkway, From Calvert City To Fulton, To Open To Traffic Wednesday

All of the 52-mile Purchase Parkway will be opened to traffic Wednesday.

The highway is in use from Highway 62 at Calvert City to Mayfield.

The Kentucky Department of Highways began charging tolls on the first 12-mile section Dec. 31; it opened the road all the way to Mayfield on Jan. 8.

The 52 miles of four-lane highway cost $42 million, counting right-of-way expenses. Eventually, it will tie in with Interstate 24 (St. Louis to Chattanooga) a short distance west of Highway 62.

The first interchange on the Parkway will be the one at I-24 when the interstate is completed. Now the first interchange, a partial interchange near Drafenville where traffic may get on traveling south and off traveling north, is at Highway 68.

The toll for the road from Highway 62 to Highway 51 at Fulton will be 90 cents.

Toll plazas are at Benton and Wingo.

One small portion of the Purchase Parkway has not been constructed. It is two miles at Fulton which will tie the highway into the Tennessee highway system when that state is ready for it.

Parkway motorists may get on or off the highway at Ky. 348 (Benton) in any direction.

The third interchange, traveling south, is on Ky. 31. Traffic there may enter the highway moving south and leave it moving north.

The fourth interchange is with U.S. 45 at Mayfield, where traffic may get on or off the road in any direction. Mayfield also has another interchange, where the parkway leaves a section of "free" road which was the old Mayfield bypass.

The second toll plaza is at Ky. 339, or relocated Ky. 58. It is at a full interchange.

Interchanges at Ky. 307 and Highway 51, the last one, also are full interchanges.

The parkway sweeps through relatively flat country. This is a cost-reducer. But the toll road, to be entirely paid for out of its revenue, has a high-cost factor.

The Purchase is laced with waterways and the parkway has 46 bridges crossing streams of various sizes. There are 28 box-type girder bridges that carry traffic of other roads over the parkway.

Actual construction of the parkway so far has cost $36,239,261.

Home of the Dollar General Complex

Tiny Scottsville Base for 345-Store Business

SCOTTSVILLE, Ky. — A retail store chain involving 345 outlets might be expected to have its headquarters in New York, Chicago or Los Angeles.

Or at least in a major city that is a secondary financial center.

Not so with Dollar General Corp., which is based in tiny Scottsville, Ky. (population 3,324 in the 1960 census), not far from the Tennessee line.

Dollar General is the outgrowth of a wholesale business that was started in 1939 by the late J.L. Turner and his son, Cal Turner, now president of Dollar General. They sold dry goods and wearing apparel to independent retailers in Kentucky and Tennessee.

The story of the growth of the business is told in the prospectus for the recent offering of 300,000 shares of Dollar General stock.

Expanded Starting in 1945

J. L. Turner & Son, the partnership, expanded from the wholesale business in 1945 to open small retail stores in small communities in the two states. In most cases, a local merchant managed the store and the Turner firm acted as wholesaler, with ownership divided between the two.

The name Dollar Stores was adopted in 1956. A year later, J. L. Turner & Son, now a corporation, sold its interest in 14 of the stores and purchased a 100 per cent interest in 12.

The company-operated stores have grown from that 12 to the present 219. Dollar General also sells at wholesale and serves as merchandising consultant to 115 associate stores. Another 11 similar stores have opened recently as franchised operations, making a total of 345 in the chain.

The company, which changed its corporate name last year to Dollar General Corp., contemplates that future associate store agreements will be made on a franchise basis.

Several Are in Louisville Area

Most of the company's stores, including several in the Louisville area, operate under the Dollar Stores banner. They accounted for 88 per cent of the company's retail sales in 1967.

Merchandise in the Dollar Stores is priced on the even dollar and most items sell for $10 or less. Approximately 60 per cent of all Dollar Stores sales are of close-outs and irregulars.

The prospectus said the ability of the company to sell merchandise at relatively low retail prices is based on centralized volume buying and warehousing, operation of its own fleet of trucks for distribution to company stores, self-service operation, virtual elimination of free deliveries and a policy of not granting credit (except at a small chain of discount stores).

Dollar General has four warehouses in Scottsville. One of them contains the executive offices of the company. The firm owns a fleet of 23 trucks. It also operates a carpentry shop in Scottsville to build store fixtures.

There are about 1,000 persons employed.

The company began opening larger discount department stores in 1965 under the name of Gibson's Discount Centers. The Gibson name is used through the payment of a franchise fee to Gibson Products Co., Seagoville, Texas.

Dollar General operates six Gibson stores and plans to open a seventh store this year in Louisville. The Gibson stores carry a wider and more expensive line of merchandise than any of the stores previously operated by Dollar General. They also offer credit. The Gibson stores accounted for 5 per cent of Dollar General's retail sales in 1967.

The remaining 7 per cent of Dollar General's retail sales came from several stores operated under the names Turner's, Nationwide Stores and Valley Salvage.

All company stores carry a variety of merchandise, including wearing apparel and other soft goods, school supplies, housewares, hardware and health and beauty aids.

Turner Owns 55 Pct.

Of the 219 stores operated by the company, 77 are in Tennessee, 67 in Kentucky and 17 in Indiana. They also are in 10 other states.

South Fulton Cage Teams Defeated In Martin Games

South Fulton got a rough welcome at Martin Tuesday night as the Panthers handed their girls a 62-42 setback and the SF Devils were downed 47-43.

In the boys game Coach Gerald Tabor said, "We just went stone cold and had a lot of turnovers during the first half."

His words are backed up by Martin's 17-6 lead in the first period and their 22-12 bulge at halftime.

"Actually it looked as if we just stood around during that first half, and then decided to play in the second. The only problem was that the clock caught us before we could close the gap," the coach said.

South Fulton's pell-mell charge was led by Ralph Jackson who got 14 points and sophomore Gary Jetton who had 10 and an unbelievable 21 rebounds.

In field goal percentages, South Fulton beat the heck out of Martin but they just dropped dead at the charity line.

From the line, Martin got 21 of 26 while SF had 9 of 20. Girls Coach David Brann pulled two of his starting forwards early in the game and went with substitutes Judy Powell and Edie Maynard and was generally pleased with their performance.

Mayfield 66 Fulton Co. 65

HICKMAN, Ky. — Mayfield nipped Fulton County 66-65 here Saturday night in a see-saw battle which saw the lead change hands several times in the final quarter.

The Pilots jumped to a five point lead early in the third quarter, but Mayfield quickly tied the count and led by 53-48 at the end of the stanza.

The Cardinals' Jerry Sanders was the games leading scorer with 28 points. Joe Tom Ford hit for 13, and David Fowler bucketed 12 for the Red Birds.

Robert Nalls banged home 23 for Fulton County, and Tom Hepler followed closely with 19.

Hickman County 76 Fulton County 55

HICKMAN, Ky. — Hickman County led throughout the game here Friday night to overpower Fulton County with a final score of 75-55.

Fulton County never got close to the Hickman foe, which led 22-10 at the end of the first period.

Murray 76 Fulton City 51

FULTON Ky. — Fulton City dropped its eighth game of the season after losing to Murray High School 76-51 here Friday night.

Murray led throughout the game and the closest Fulton got to them was at the end of the first period with the score 17-16. At the half the score stood at 40-22 and at the end of the third period the score was 62-32.

High point man for Murray was Albert Scott with 22 points followed by Pat Lamb with 18. The only other double figure man for Murray was Allen Hudspeth with 15 points.

Sam Pirtle led Fulton City's scoring with 15 points followed by David Winston with 12 and Bill Smith with 10.

Union City fans saw a pair of goodies Friday evening but, for the visiting South Fulton folks, things just didn't go quite as well. The Tornado teams increased their wins at the expense of the Devils teams as the Lady Twisters found some of their early season form and dumped the Devilettes by a 37-42 count while the Tornadoes socked it to the Devils 71-42 in the finale.

Fulton Bank Promotes Bill Scott, Leroy Sawyer

The Fulton Bank promoted two of its bank officials at the annual stockholders' meeting held last week and the recognition couldn't happen to a couple of nicer guys.

Bill Scott, a popular business and civic leader and public official was promoted to the status of cashier and Leroy Sawyer, whose ability is matched only by his friendly and cooperative attitude, has been made assistant cashier. Sawyer, who has been serving as installment loan manager steps into the position left vacant by Scott's promotion.

In addition to attending to financial matters incident to the stockholders' meeting, the bank officials revealed a significant increase of twenty-one per cent in its deposits and loan accounts.

"The increase is largely accountable to the many new services the bank has offered in the past several months," one of the bank officials told the News on Monday. Our Mastercharge service, our five per cent interest on time deposits, the vast new facilities of our new bank building with its large parking area, our drive-in bank windows and a lot of other improvements have made our bank 'the complete bank' for our community," he added.

A year ago this month the Fulton Bank had a formal opening of its handsome new bank building on Mears Street. The new facility and the environmental improvement apparently attracted the establishment of a huge new A&P Food Store, which will have its formal opening, near the bank area.

In spite of the tremendous strides made by the Fulton Bank in the years since it was established here, bank officials hinted that even more modern services will be added in the weeks to come.

Officers and directors for the coming year were reelected as follows: Frank Beadles, chairman of the board; Maxwell McDade, president; M. R. Jeffress, executive vice president; Harold Henderson, vice president.

Members of the board of directors are: Frank Beadles, Maxwell McDade, M. R. Jeffress, Harold Henderson, Dr. R. T. Peterson, James Butts, Charles Fields.

Minimum Wage Increases For Farmers On Feb. 1

Tennessee farmers who are covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act should remember that on February 1, 1969 the minimum wage for hired farm workers goes up from $1.15 to $1.30 per hour, reminds Frank M. DeFriesse, University of Tennessee Extension associate agricultural economist.

"The law requires that any farm employer who used more than 500 man-days of eligible farm labor in any calendar quarter of the preceding year is classified as a covered employer and must pay this minimum wage," DeFriesse continues. "This is roughly figured as about seven full time employees."

A little extra "chopping" labor this summer may have been enough to qualify a farmer as a "covered employer."

Not all hired labor, however, is considered in figuring the 500 man-day base, the economist explains. Some of the labor that is exempt will be: members of the employer's immediate family; local, daily commuting, hand-harvest piece workers who worked in agriculture less than 13 weeks last year; and migrant hand-harvest piece workers under 16 years of age who work with their parents and who are paid the same rate as older workers.

A good reference about hired farm workers and the Fair Labor Standards Act is U. S. Department of Labor WHPC Publication 1161, notes DeFriesse. This publication may be obtained from your county Extension office or from the field offices of U. S. Department of Labor in Bristol, Chattanooga, Columbia, Jackson, Johnson City, Knoxville, Memphis and Nashville.

No. 2 Post For Hamilton

Political maneuvering was in evidence when the State Legislature's powerful Fiscal Review Committee met Thursday afternoon in Nashville and, when it was over, Sen. Milton Hamilton of Union City was one of two vice chairmen elected by the committee.

The political dealing was suspected when State Rep. John Hicks of Nashville, a Democrat, was elected chairman of the committee by a 6-5 margin, with all five of the Republicans on the committee supporting his candidacy. This prompted suggestions that Rep. Hicks entered into an agreement with the Republican members in return for their support. The other candidate was Rep. W.J. Neese of Paris.

The committee then decided to elect two vice chairmen of equal status. Sen. Hamilton got one of the posts and the other went to a Republican, Rep. Ben Longley of Cleveland. Another Republican, Rep. Thomas Jensen of Knoxville, was elected secretary.

Sen. Hamilton, in a telephoned report to The Messenger today, said the committee voted Thursday not to rehire its executive director, Willard K. Laughlin, a man who came under fire last week when he sought unsuccessfully to become state comptroller.

Sen. Hamilton, who voted with the majority not to rehire Laughlin, said Laughlin's candidacy for comptroller last week generated "a lack of confidence" in the committee's full-time, paid director.

"Because the Democrats have only a 6-5 majority on the committee and because we felt it might be difficult to work with Mr. Laughlin, we were convinced that the only way to accomplish what the Legislature intended us to accomplish was to change directors," Sen. Hamilton explained.

The Fiscal Review Committee was established as the Legislature's "watchdog" over the state budget.

Sen. Hamilton said the General Assembly completed its organizational work Thursday and has adjourned until Feb. 25 when the regular legislative session begins. The length of the session has not yet been determined.

Everett Praised By Legislature

Both houses of the State Legislature today passed a resolution praising the record of accomplishment compiled by Rep. Robert A. Everett of Tennessee and expressing the hope that he will recover completely and soon be back at his desk in Washington. Congressman Everett contracted a serious kidney ailment last fall and was hospitalized for several weeks in both Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland and Veterans Hospital in Nashville.
